Sunday Auto Accidents

N. E. Wheelbarger, wife and two children and Mrs. J. A. Sloan, riding in the Wheelbarger car, had a narrow escape from being crushed under a Burlington engine last Sunday afternoon. The accident happened at the crossing on East Cole street. They were driving east and were caught by a lone engine backing around the "Y" to the south yards. Mr. Wheelbarger, who was driving, did not see the engine until it was within a few feet of his car. He made a sharp turn and took down the track but was unable to avoid being hit.

The front part of the car was badly damaged, one wheel being crushed, springs broken and the whole thing warped and twisted into a scrap heap.

As the car tilted Mrs. Wheelbarger was thrown out and injured by striking the bank and has since been under the doctor's care. The others were uninjured.

About midnight Sunday as F. R. Power was returning from Brookfield with Walter Mossbarger as a passenger he hit the light pole at the northwest corner of the park and came to a sudden stop. The car was not badly damaged but Mossbarger sustained a scalp wound by striking the windshield, which was broken.

Mr. Mossbarger has good reason to believe fate is after him as he already had one hand bandaged, having had two fingers broken when he was thrown from an auto truck on which he was riding two weeks ago.
